Daniel Verdugo Nosov

Digital product designer with seven years of experience

Hello there,

My name is Daniel, I'm digital product designer with 7 years of experience in design. Since I've learned about Blink Health, its mission and its hunt for product designers a couple of weeks ago, I really thought that this company and I could really go a long way together.

Let me tell you about myself for a bit. I will attach my resume to the application, however, here's the list of some cool (IMO) things I've managed to do during my career in digital:

- Helped the largest private bank in Russia (and one of the biggest in the world) to seriously redesign its main service for working with its largest corporate clients, making it easier for them to interact with the bank and receive its products and services more effectively.
- Maintained the website of the world's largest gas company, Gazprom, and participated in the creation of its new version.
- Participated in the redesign of the OZON.ru—the “Amazon.com of Russia”—virtual catalogue, optimizing navigation, redesigning product tiles and other of its elements, increasing sales and profits.
- Participated in the ascent of the “first smartphone bank” Rocketbank (just in the same time Revolut did it in the West), helping to create and launch its cool and memorable online marketing campaigns.
- Now I am now helping a German-Russian wind tunnel company to improve its booking and business management system and bring it to market as a standalone product. And we've even managed to get a new client in the process.

I constantly try to evolve as a professional as the world is not standing still. New opportunities always excite me. I am always looking for opportunities to increase the impact on the world around, for myself as well as for my employer.

I believe that health care, energy and sustainable industry are the “next big things” for humanity. And in this worldview the democratization of the drug prices as part of making health care more affordable for everybody is one of the most important tasks.

Some time in the past, I've learned about your company, its founders and its difficult mission from the article on Forbes. So, naturally, after I've heard from my college friend Max, who is a developer and your employee, that you're hiring product designers, I immediately decided to apply.

So, that's it, I suggest you take a look at my professional background. As I wrote before, I will attach my resume. And if you'll want to get to know more about my past achievements, feel free to email me—I usually answer very quickly.

Best,
Daniel.

P.S. Unfortunately, I'm not eligible for H1B as I'm still in the process of getting my academic (bachelor's) degree in Computer Science. So, I'll suggest trying the O-1 (if you're willing to take this path with me) or working remotely till I successfully get my degree. Anyway, I will be more than happy to join your team.
